The Department of Pediatrics at Lehigh Valley Health Network is seeking a Chief Resident for the academic year July 2016 to June 2017. The Chief Resident will support our 18-slot ACGME-accredited pediatric residency program and be an integral part of the residency leadership. This is an excellent opportunity for a new graduate to further grow as a clinician while also developing his/her leadership skills under the mentorship of a well-established pediatric management team. Successful candidate will enjoy a broad scope of teaching, administrative, clinical and leadership responsibilities.

Lehigh Valley Hospital is the only hospital in our region to be a member of the Children’s Hospital Association. The hospital has a 30-bed general pediatric unit, 8-bed Level II PICU, 40-bed Level III NICU and a 12-bed pediatric ER. Pediatric subspecialty services are available in adolescent medicine, infectious disease, pulmonology, anesthesiology, cardiology, endocrinology, hematology/oncology, gastroenterology, neurology, orthopedics, radiology, pediatric surgery and more.

For the 20th year in a row LVHN has been listed as one of the nation’s best hospitals in U.S. News and World Report. We are located in the Lehigh Valley area which is anchored by the city of Allentown, one of the fastest growing areas in the state. Urban redevelopment that includes new businesses, sophisticated metropolitan-style housing, four-star restaurants and entertainment venues are credited with the city’s growth. Within 10 minutes of the downtown are beautiful suburban neighborhoods, city parks, bike trails, ski areas and more. The academic opportunities in the area include excellent public schools, highly regarded private schools plus 10 colleges and universities. Philadelphia is just 60 minutes south and NYC is 90 minutes east of the Lehigh Valley.
