

CARES Institute Child Abuse Pediatric Fellowship Program

Our Program The CAP Fellowship goals and objectives in years one, two, and three emphasize the development of the fellows' competence in recognizing and managing all forms of child maltreatment including physical abuse, sexual abuse, neglect, emotional and/or psychological abuse, medical child abuse, and abuse by poisoning. Fellows gain the majority of their clinical training in recognizing and managing child maltreatment during their CAP rotations at the Children's Regional Hospital at Cooper and the CARES Institute. The fellow will gain additional skills and knowledge during their subspecialty rotations and advocacy rotations. An approach of progressive responsibility is employed to provide the fellow with the optimal learning experience.

Our Culture One of the unique features of this program is the incredible cultural and ethnic diversity of the patients served. This level of diversity truly trains the fellow on cross-cultural aspects that affect the prevention, intervention, treatment, and support of abused children. We strongly believe that diversity in the workplace leads to innovation and cutting-edge, culturally-competent, family-centered care. We are also committed to developing an environment that facilitates career advancement and retention of our talented faculty and staff.

Duke Fellowship Goals:

- Prepare skilled CAP's who desire to make a difference in the life of each child through teamwork, trust, respect, integrity, and innovation
- Provide a supportive learning environment that encourages collaboration across team members and other subspecialties
- Strengthen a commitment to advocacy of child health priorities both locally and nationally
- Develop a passion for lifelong learning and commitment to the CAP field

Why our Fellowship?

Teamwork is our #1 quality. We value all members of our team while also striving for the best mentorship/professional development, fellowship balance, education, patient care, and research.

Why Duke?

Duke Children's Hospital & Health Center is located within the Duke University Medical Center. Duke brand new Children's Hospital serves as both a primary care facility and a referral center for patients from North Carolina and throughout the Southeast.

Why Durham?

Durham's distinctive neighborhoods and thriving businesses combine the friendliness of a small city with tasty dining, lively arts and an entrepreneurial spirit. Durham is diverse, dynamic and a great place to live.

Child Abuse Pediatrics Fellowship University of California, San Diego

The Chadwick Center for Children and Families at Rady Children's Hospital and the Department of Pediatrics at the University of California San Diego is offering a 3-year fellowship in Child Abuse Pediatrics.

Our Program trains pediatricians to become experts in all areas of child abuse and neglect. We provide comprehensive training and experience in clinical assessment, diagnosis, research, and educational didactics. Our goal is to train physicians who will become excellent clinicians, educators and researchers.

The fellowship program at UCSD/Rady Children's Hospital is accredited by the ACGME and successful graduates are eligible for Child Abuse Pediatrics board Certification by the American Board of Pediatrics.

Our program is open to graduates of accredited pediatric residencies.

PROGRAM SPECIFICS

The UNM fellowship in child abuse pediatrics is a 3-year ACGME accredited program that prepares fellows for clinical and academic careers focused on preventing and treating family violence, neglect and exploitation. Fellows are eligible to sit for ABP subspecialty certification at the completion of the program.

New Mexico's diverse population and cultures provide a rich clinical learning environment. UNM has a strong reputation for excellence in education and quality improvement. The University also affords multiple avenues for research across designated research centers, institutes, networks, and signature programs.

CLINICAL EXPERIENCE

The fellowship program includes 24 months of clinical rotations. These include 10 inpatient and 8 outpatient subspecialty months, and 6 ancillary rotations in child/adolescent psychiatry, care for families with substance use disorders, pediatric and neuro radiology, pediatric physical medicine and rehabilitation, forensic pathology, and special topics in rural and tribal communities.

EDUCATIONAL EXPERIENCE AND SCHOLARLY ACTIVITY

Fellows participate in several educational activities including subspecialty journal club and board preparation, and mentoring for legal testimony. Fellows also attend 1 national conference each year.

During 12 dedicated scholarly months, fellows receive training in clinical research and quality improvement project design, and one on one mentorship with an experienced research mentor. Interested fellows also have access to multidisciplinary research networks.

Fellows also participate in SafeCare New Mexico, a Section led telehealth program sponsored by Project ECHO that offers education and mentorship to rural stakeholders. SafeCare's goal is to strengthen our community of practice among pediatric health care practitioners in New Mexico.

INSTITUTION CULTURE

The University of New Mexico is New Mexico's healthcare and academic medicine leader. We serve a diverse patient population and seek to educate and train a workforce that reflects our commitment to excellence and high-quality care.
